Farm Bureau in Session Saturday

Delegates Will Attend a Meeting in Amarillo Today of Panhandle Farmers

The County Board of the Randall County Farm Bureau met Saturday afternoon in the committee room of the County Agent's office.

Plans were made to attend the district meeting of the Farm Bureau which is being held in Amarillo today.

Meeting with the County group Saturday was Joe Hutton of Spearman who is a member of the Board of Directors of the State Farm Bureau.

Mr. Hutton talked to the Randall County Association in regard to recommendations to be made by the State Farm Bureau regarding a national program for wheat during the years immediately ahead. Since the Panhandle district has the most important wheat area of Texas, the recommendation of District One counties carry considerable weight with the Texas and the American Farm Bureau organizations.

Director Hutton stated that the Randall County Association has the most consistent membership record of any county in the Panhandle District.

A. E. Wise, chairman of the Randall County Association, presided at the meeting Saturday. Seven communities answered present with one or more members of their respective community committees.

After the conference with Director Hutton, Mr. Wise conducted a round table discussion of plans of the local Bureau.

Kids Playing in Streets May Be Auto Victims

Several citizens call attention to the fact that some child in Canyon will likely be killed by motorists unless the boys and girls quit playing in the streets.

Boys, especially, are playing ball in the streets, and paying little attention to cars. Like all towns, Canyon has careless drivers, who use the streets as speedways.

But careful drivers cannot avoid the boys as they become intent on their game. Some Canyon citizens report that they have been forced to stop in order to avoid a serious accident.

Parents should see to it that children do not play in the streets.

County Passes Fund Quota

As in Previous Drives Randall Does Its Duty—And More

Randall county is over the top in the National War Fund drive.

Chairman Milton Morris today said that more than $3,300 had been received, and half a dozen reports had not been made. He called for all reports to be in by Saturday of this week.

The county quota, set up to meet local expenses and the state-assigned total, was $3,006.

The national drive, last of the combined campaigns for support of the USO and 21 other agencies, will finance these groups until most of them have disbanded.

Randall county has far exceeded its quota in two previous drives.

OPA May Keep Office Here Tire Rationing

Protests all over the southwest has resulted in a promise from OPA officials that the local office will remain in Canyon so long as tire rationing continues. However, it is stated that all other rationing records and business will likely be transferred to Amarillo on Nov. 20, in compliance to original orders.

Shoe rationing is scheduled to end in a few days. Other types of rationing may gradually be dropped. The tire situation remains as critical throughout the nation as it has been. However, constant reports come out of Akron, Ohio, that there is a sufficient stock of tires on hand to meet general needs if OPA would release the tires. This is denied by government officials.

The uncertainty continues as to when OPA will finally wind up its affairs.

Community Day Will Be Observed By Church

The Canyon United Council of Church Women will observe World Community Day, November 2, 7:30 p. m. at the First Christian Church.

Three years ago World Community Day came into being because the church women of America felt they must unite their forces if they were to build a better world. They realized that peace was not something one nation could achieve alone. It could come only as the nations of the world worked together, and that better human relationships and international relationships must depend on Christian principles. It was to help establish these Christian principles that the first Friday in November was set aside for World Community Day.

Mrs. Lawrence Aber, World Relationships Chairman of the local council is in charge of the program. The theme is "The Price of Enduring Peace." The entire community is asked to attend.

Tax Collector M. E. Cantrell states that there has been a brisk payment of taxes during the month.

Victory Loan Drive Will Open on Monday, With Quota $125,000

Chapel Fund Is Increased With Many Gifts

A steady stream of small contributions, and occasional large ones, marks the progress of the West Texas State chapel drive.

Funds are being received by Dr. J. A. Hill, president, who is giving personal attention to the campaign. Cash and pledges total more than $15,000. The goal is $50,000.

Building of the religious edifice at West Texas State has been endorsed by Panhandle churchmen, civic clubs, and many other organizations. The structure would be used for lectures, concerts, weddings, conferences between plains pastors and their student patrons, special religious services, and quiet meditation. The program would not conflict with worship periods or projects of local churches.

Appropriateness of the project has attracted nationwide attention. Presidents of many other colleges have written for details.

Student religious organizations at West Texas State are among the most active in the state.

Government Asks the Sale of $80,000 of E Bonds During Victory Loan Drive

America's Great Victory Loan will open on October 29.

Randall county has a reduced quota for this bond drive. The total sales requested by the government is $125,000. Of this amount the treasury asks for $80,000 in E Bonds.

R. H. Wright, county chairman believes that Randall county citizens will respond quickly to the call of this final War Loan. The drive has been designated by the treasury as an opportunity for Americans to show their appreciation to the men and women who fought during the war and make peace possible.

The need for money will continue for many years to come. The returning veterans must be cared for, and a grateful nation will be called upon to perform many services for the 12 million who have been under arms.

A new feature of this drive is the $200 bond, which is dedicated to the war efforts of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Restrictions on Newspapers Are Still Effective

All of the daily newspapers are making renewals of subscriptions only. There will be less newspaper available for the daily newspapers for 1946, according to government estimates, in spite of the fact that newspaper has been released from restrictions. This does not increase the amount available.

Those who fail to renew their subscriptions will be out of a daily newspaper during 1946.

The Canyon News will send in the renewals on the Amarillo News, Star-Telegram and other daily newspapers. It is necessary to attach the date tag of the Star-Telegram in order to secure a renewal.

HYPERNATED AMERICANISM!

Throughout America we hear a chorus of voices belittling our Capitalist system of government and our part in World War II. Some folks continue to believe it is a crime to stick up for the United States and our system of government which made victory possible. The voices of the hypernated Americans are crying down the American successes and bemoaning the so-called virtues of other countries. Yet some of the foremost leaders of other governments whose loyalty to their own countries cannot be questioned have paid high tribute to us for having played the most important part in victory.

The former Prime Minister of England, Mr. Churchill, for instance, gives us full credit for victory over the Nazis, the most powerful of the recent enemies of mankind. He says: "The United States sent men over here in millions to help us and to break the power of Hitler."

Prime Minister Attlee, successor to Mr. Churchill, credits the United States with the defeat of the Japanese, the second most powerful enemy in the recent war. He says: "Our gratitude goes out to all our splendid Allies and ABOVE ALL TO THE UNITED STATES, without whose prodigious efforts this war in the Far East would still have many years to run."

Even Premier Stalin of Russia, has finally "thawed out" too and credits us with the victory; that's more than one can say for his underlings here. He says: "The production and the material of America won the war."

Shrinking himself, the only survivor of the three horsemen who started this war acknowledges that our terrific bombings, the blockade by our navy the loss of Okinawa to the Marines and finally the terrific destruction through atomic bombs brought Japan to her knees.

We fought a two-front war with battle lines thousands of miles apart and we won decisive victories. In addition to supplying the greatest number of men to the armed forces, we spent thirty-five billions of dollars in lend-lease in mostly manufactured products to our Allies. Real Americans have every right to be proud of themselves, their country, and their free enterprise system of government which brought such decisive victory.

It is about time for those who condemn our American way of life, the capitalist system, to "pape down." Real Americans will sing the praise of our country. In this country it is not a crime to be an American. Our gallant sons and daughters with boundless devotion, indefatigable resourcefulness, endless courage, ACCOMPLISHED what to some was THE IMPOSSIBLE. That form of government which our forefathers created here 134 years ago is still good enough for us and we mean to keep it. GOODBYE TO THE HYPERNATED AMERICANS!

Congress is trying to decide whether or not all fighting forces of the nation shall be placed under one head. Perhaps the healthy rivalry which has existed between the Army and Navy has been a good thing. When it came to co-operation during the war, there seems to be no doubt that all American forces worked together. Duplication of departments is a bad thing at any time, especially during war when various branches of the service are buying millions of dollars worth of supplies. There probably would be no actual savings in time of war, but more efficiency should result, especially in Washington. Congress is in the humor to do some cutting on overhead expenses in government. This is one of the biggest jobs that Congress will undertake.

If a gang of men lined up on the streets of Canyon and beat up their fellow citizens, the police force would be called out to quell the riot. Those who so engaged in this riot would be charged in court with a crime against society. All right, then what is the difference when one group of men beats up their fellow men who insist on their right to work? They call this form of rioting, pocketing. Legalized crime? That's what it looks like to us. And our government seems to approve such rioting.

Where Jap Laws Are Rubber-Stamped

Interior view of the upper house of the Jap Imperial Diet. Premier Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni, cousin of Emperor Hirohito, is shown on the rostrum, behind four stenographers in enclosure.

A few years ago the drive was against chain stores. But little was accomplished since the chains are stronger today than ever before. Now the drive is against Co-ops. Some folks are interested in this fight, while others do not care. The principal reason of opposition is that fact that Co-ops are charged with paying no taxes. Yet we see that many Co-op managers say that they pay all the various kinds of taxes which other business firms pay. Who is right? We see no justice in allowing any business firm to escape the payment of taxes.

John Lewis called off the coal strike. He will try it again when he feels that he is sure to win. Just what has gone wrong that Lewis cannot bluff his way? In most strikes, the issue is between the unions and the operators of business. In the coal strike, the public held the highest stakes. Without coal there would be acute suffering this winter. Certainly the Lewis heart of stone has not melted sufficiently to give a wriggle as to what would happen to the public.

It is more and more evident that even the makers of the atomic bomb do not agree what should be done with this engine of greatest destruction. There is little chance of keeping the secret long, no matter how carefully it is guarded. Scientists of all nations simply have the means of uncovering facts which other nations have discovered. It is not a very pretty picture for the future security of the world.

Congratulations to the people of Randall county! Our quota for the War Chest Drive is nearly reached. We note from newspapers over the territory that the drive in most counties has bogged down. Little work is being done, and the response has been light. Good leadership in Randall county, and a hearty response on the part of the people will put the quota over.

The Smith-Connally law will be amended. The bill sought to end strikes by making them illegal. As a matter of fact the bill put the government's approval on strikes and encourages the strikers to riot through the means of legalized picketing.

STILL SOUR

There is one thing the American people might as well face and that is that while responsible officials in our government give lip service to the idea that free enterprise should be encouraged in the United States in order to perpetuate liberty and independence, they seek to establish political programs which by their very nature will hamstring the successful functioning of private enterprise.

Both England and France had to be saved from Hitler's national socialism, and yet both of them are deliberately turning to his political philosophy under which the people become wards of the state—that is, they become dependent on the state for their jobs, their housing, and their medical treatment.

We cannot object to England and France adopting socialism if that is their desire, but when they ask us to help finance it, and when leaders in our own government try to lead the American people along similar lines by devious routes and ruses, American citizens have a right to object while they still have that privilege. It will be a pretty sick world, instead of a shining new one, when the international politicians get control of the means of production and jobs.

Let's keep America American until we see how one of the new socialistic dictatorships turns out.

Just because they are not of German origin won't make them any sweeter in the long run than under Hitler.

Honor List Is W. T. Compiled

Twelve Juniors and Seniors Chosen From Faculty Nominees

Among junior and senior students of West Texas State, twelve have been recommended for Who's Who in American colleges and universities.

These outstanding students are Polly Winstead, senior, Wayne Thomas, junior, Waldeen Doris, senior, Winnie Fred Ramage, junior, Ben Brotherton, junior, Annie Catherine Conatser, junior, Norma Lee Lantz, junior, William Montgomery, junior, P. C. Ledrick, senior, Gertrude Golladay, junior, Mary Lee Abbott, junior, and E. Burroughs, junior. Ledrick was in Who's Who in the year of 1941.

This list was sent to the University of Alabama Thursday for the approval of the Editorial Board. The board is a commercial concern and has nothing to do with the University. Students selected for Who's Who will receive a letter notifying them of the choice in the near future.

Each faculty member of the college selected from the two upper classes five students who are outstanding in their field on the campus. These names were tabulated, and from them, twelve were selected by the Welfare Committee. They were judged by a composite rating on leadership, scholarship, character and student activity.

ROYAL QUACKERY

We have thousands of public officials and regulators of business and industry all trying to figure out some painless scheme whereby we can change over from the most disastrous war in world history to a peacetime economy, with everyone continuing to get war wages or better, and no one feeling the penalty that is inevitably exacted as the price of war.

An example of the phoney reasoning that is used in an endeavor to keep wartime profits for some while others bear the wartime losses, is found in orders issued by government agencies to force retail stores to insert a guaranteed full employment clause in a union contract. Another example is to be found in the latest ruling by the OPA that retail stores must absorb increased cost of manufacturing—its "cost absorption" theory.

It is a safe bet that no store can long guarantee employment to a given number unless it has the necessary business. Nor can it long absorb higher manufacturing cost in its retail price, if by so doing it operates at a loss or no profit. Even our army of bureaucrats will be out of their wartime jobs if they can't think up something to help keep the wheels of industry turning, instead of blocking them with theoretical monkey wrenches which destroy rather than encourage honest, peace time employment.

Only the tremendous vitality of our young country enables it to survive the onslaughts to which it is subjected from political sources that seek to make the public believe a fake wartime prosperity can be continued, and that by soaking industry in some form or other the people can escape the toil and saving necessary to meet the cost of war. Guaranteed full employment and cost-absorption are merely tricks to fool the people a little

Buffaloes Turn Toward Texas Tech With Bitter Memories

West Texas State will journey to Texas Tech Stadium Saturday night, October 27, in high spirits and in a revengeful mood to even up matters concerning a game played in Amarillo last October. On the Raider roster for 1945 are nine veterans. Two first year men are playing the end positions. These two men are R. W. Moyer, six-foot, 190-pound Lubbock High school star and Frank Ottmers, six-foot, one-inch Fredericksburg player of 1944. Coach Dell Morgan has made some changes in his veterans by changing Floyd Lawhorn, 1944 center to a guard position and Jack Dillon, who lettered at end last season, is expected to be calling signals and to handle the ball in the T formation. Dillon is a former Chillicothe high school star. Lawhorn is from Temple. Other lettermen are Otis Turner, Wink, center; Joe Snodgrass, Brownfield, tackle; Walter Schlunkman, Dumas, Cecil Morris, Beaumont, and Arthur Shahan, Graham, backs. James Gimmel, Littlefield tackle, was a reserve last season and is expected to get in a lot of time this season. Russell Birdwell, another guard and a member of the 1942 squad has recently received a medical discharge from the Navy. Birdwell is from Bossier City, La.

The Red Raiders are operating exclusively from the T formation this year. Texas Tech has lost games with Texas University and Tulsa University this year.

twisted mesquite; the rugged Big Bend section, its grandeur unsullied by man, and the highest peaks east of the Rockies, the loftiest almost 9,000 feet.

In between the east and the west can be found the "black waxy" soil where there are cotton fields and singing negroes gathering the white bolls; pastures that are glorious with bluebonnets and Indian paintbrush; the Heart of the Hills country, with clear streams and abundant game; in the southeast, rice fields, magnolias, moss-draped oaks, and swamps through which alligators creep; and at the tip of Texas, the Magic Valley, a land of semi-tropical beauty with orange, grapefruit, lemon and olive groves.

Then Texas has picturesque creatures, some of whom could have escaped from Ripley's Believe-It-or-Not Drawings: cunning coyotes, armor-plated armadillos, prairie dogs, scorpions, centipedes, fierce javelinas (wild boars), the comical-looking road runner that kills deadly rattlesnakes, that hairy-legged, dreid spider, the huge tarantula, and the fearsome-appearing but harmless horned frog, that shoots blood from its eyes.

(To be concluded).

"Why didn't you hold out your hand?" the judge asked Pat.

"Well," he said indignantly, "if he couldn't see the truck, how in hiven's name could he see my hand?"

Rabies Increase During Winter Is Austin Report

Contrary to popular belief, rabies is more prevalent in winter than in the so-called "dog-days" of summer.

In a statement released by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, it was disclosed that in the midwinter month of February last year the State Laboratory examined 312 animal brains for the presence of rabies, over thirty-seven per cent of which tested positive, whereas in August only 155 brains were examined, thirty per cent of which were positive.

"If all stray dogs were destroyed, and all pets vaccinated for rabies, it would go far toward stamping out this justly feared fatal disease," Dr. Cox said.

The doctor stressed that dogs suspected of having rabies should not be killed immediately, but should instead be confined ten days for observation to see if the disease develops. If a dog sickens and dies during the observation period, the head should be packed in ice and sent to the State Health Department for examination. Freezing the brain, or killing the dog prematurely, or in such a manner as to injure the brain may make correct laboratory findings uncertain, if not impossible.

Dr. Cox declared that after a dog is confined ten days and then killed, there is still ample time for a victim of his bite to be treated for rabies prevention, but he cautioned that if the disease is found to be present in the dog, the victim should then begin treatment without further delay.

He had been fishing with no luck. On his way home he entered a fish market and accosted the clerk.

"John," he said, "just stand over at that side of the store and throw me five of your biggest trout."

"Throw them? What's the big idea?"

"Just so that I can tell the family I caught them. I may be a poor fisherman, but I'm no liar."

Last Chance

By ROY V. PRICE
McClure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Features.

DAVE CLARK, of the News, tore his eyes from the gym ring long enough to ask the fat man beside him, "Well, Moe, how does the next card stack up?"

Moe Nicholas, matchmaker-promoter of Nicholas Arena, stopped watching the two boxers long enough to say around his cigar, "Not so good. The boy I had lined up for Tony Amano in the semifinal broke his hand and I can't find nobody to replace him!"

"Even stumblebums are hard to find nowadays," Dave was saying when he was elbowed aside by Slat Moran.

"Hello, Moe," said Slat, his grin showing two gaps.

"Outa liquor again?" Moe asked derisively.

"Aw, that's past. I been training three weeks. Ever since I got that wire from my boy. He's back from Saipan, wounded and sick. I gotta go to Atlanta to see 'im, Moe."

"Well?" Moe grunted.

"That's what I want to see you about. I can't go down there looking like a bum. I gotta have a fight."

During Dave's twenty-four years of covering sports, he had heard a lot about fighters being no-goods, but he knew plenty of good men are in the game. He remembered the time, six years before, when Slat was at his peak—never more than a second-rate heavy. He recalled how hard Slat had hit the bottle when the Army classified him 4-F because of a ruptured eardrum.

"Why don't you try some of the smaller clubs?" Moe asked.

"Look, Moe, I could get a job in a war factory but that wouldn't be enough," Slat said. "I gotta get to my boy and start 'im in the business he's always had his heart set on. I know fighting's good for money now and there ain't too many classy boys around; and cards ain't too easy to find. And I'm still somebody to whip. I'm in shape, too."

"The fans want a fight when they pay their money, and I can't draw flies with feeble old men, even in wartime," Moe said. He peeled off a ten-dollar bill and shoved it toward Slat. "This is the best I can do."

"I'm no darned bum!" Slat exploded, shoving the money back. "All I'm asking is a chance to fight!"

Dave couldn't resist: "I believe he could give Amano a run for his money."

Slat's face lighted up. "Sure I can," he said, going into his famous fighting stance. "I'll flatten 'im inside three rounds with the right I floored Louis!"

Moe said, "This time the semi-final winner takes all the semiwind-up purse and gets a chance to fight the main event on my next card. That's the only way I could get Amano. It's your last chance, Slat."

Dave was looking over the crowd of nine thousand packed into Nicholas Arena, when the bell sounded for round one. He knew they wanted to see Amano, the new knockout sensation, stiffen somebody. Discharged from the Army for some minor disability, Amano had swept through the South and the Middle West by virtue of a deadly left hook.

He was headed for Madison Square Garden and the big dough. Dave was not astonished to see Slat take as sound a drubbing in that first round as he'd ever seen anybody take and remain standing. Slat was jabbed dizzy.

And round two was no different. Amano was muscled like a bull. He moved forward with a dark sneer on his face as he tried to herd Slat into a corner where he could club his brains out. But Slat seemed to absorb the punishment and fight back. His great experience helped.

He was tall, and his face and ears carried the marks of his trade. But he could box. His long arms and round shoulders had packed an awful wallop in his day. The swarthy Amano leaped after Slat to finish him off, but the bell ended the round.

Dave watched Slat slump on the stool in his corner and he knew the fight was over. Then he saw Moe, who never seconded anybody, lean down with his head through the space between the top and second strand, and talk out of the side of his mouth into Slat's ear.

Slat came out slowly. Abruptly his stance changed. His right darted out from behind his ear. The crowd roared to its feet. Amano turned ashen and retreated. Slat pressed forward, anchored to the canvas floor like a gnarled old tree. Sharp, murderous punches whipped to Amano's jaw. Then Slat's right darted across again.

As the referee's arm rose and fell for the last time over Amano, Slat made his way to his corner by holding on to the ropes.

"Moe," Dave yelled, "how'd he do it? What happened?"

"I just told 'im to go out there and hit Amano with the same right he floored Louis with."

"Louis! Why, he's never even fought Louis!" Dave shouted.

"Yeah, I know. The punch never existed—except in his old punch-drunk head."

Important Crops

Most important crops in the garden, nutritionists assure us, are the "green leafy" foods, rich especially in vitamin A, of which we eat far too little.

Honey-bees will produce an average of 50 pounds of honey per colony.

Residue Removal Helps Control Corn Borer

The European corn borer develops into the flying and egg-laying moth stage late in the spring or early in the summer from borers that have passed the winter in the stalks and stubble of corn, and other coarse-stemmed crops and weeds. In order to prevent serious increases of this pest, entomologists of the USDA's research administration say that all residues of these crops and weeds, especially corn, should be completely destroyed.

In 1944, despite light infestation in the eastern part of the infected region, due primarily to drought conditions, the European corn borer caused a corn crop loss of over $22,000,000. Under favorable weather conditions, each female moth will lay an average of 400 eggs—and sometimes as many as 1,900—which hatch in four to nine days.

Infested cornstalks are removed in three ways: by feeding to livestock; by deep and clean plowing; and by complete burning. In the eastern states areas the corn borer attacks—in addition to corn—a great variety of vegetables, field crops, flowers, large-stemmed weeds and grasses. In these areas, remnants of these plants must be included in farm disposal or clean-up operations. In the lake states area the borer breeds mostly in corn. In most of the infested states there are two broods of the borer per year, and in the southernmost of these there may be three broods. The insect begins its activities earlier in the season in the most southern and eastern states and continues them later than it does in the lake states.

Moisture Reduction Aids Dehydrated Food Life

Keeping quality of dehydrated vegetables increases markedly with a decrease in the moisture content, according to tests made at the Western research laboratory of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Dehydrated vegetables lowered in moisture content beyond present commercial attainments have been found to retain their quality proportionally better, without refrigeration as a protective measure, according to L. B. Howard of the laboratory staff. Although current dehydrated vegetables are serving their purpose, they are still subject to deterioration during storage, especially if they must meet the hazard of high temperatures for prolonged periods. Consequently there is need for an efficient and feasible method of lowering the moisture content below present purchase specifications.

Still lower moisture contents are attainable only through a limited number of measures, Dr. Howard points out. These would require additional costs. Of the methods now available, the use of the "in package" desiccant, or drying agent, such as calcium chloride held in moisture-permeable packages, seems to offer the most promise.

Photoflash Camera

Details concerning the electric illumination of an astounding new photoflash camera, now in use by the armed forces, and designed to take clear bird's-eye pictures by night from reconnaissance planes have been divulged. For proper operation, the flash tube is plugged into any one of three rather complex electronic devices designed for its use. Purpose of the auxiliary system is to pile up a tremendous amount of electrical energy which, when released suddenly into the flash tube, results in a blinding "explosion of light." Although each flash of the new tube is many hundred times as bright as that from flash bulbs used by news photographers, its duration is confined to a mere one thousandth of a second. So great, however, is the heat developed, that a steady blast of air must be forced through the jacket to cool the coil. Despite the forced cooling of the light source, heat from the flash is so intense that it chars wood at a distance of a foot or so from the tube.

Belgium's Terrain

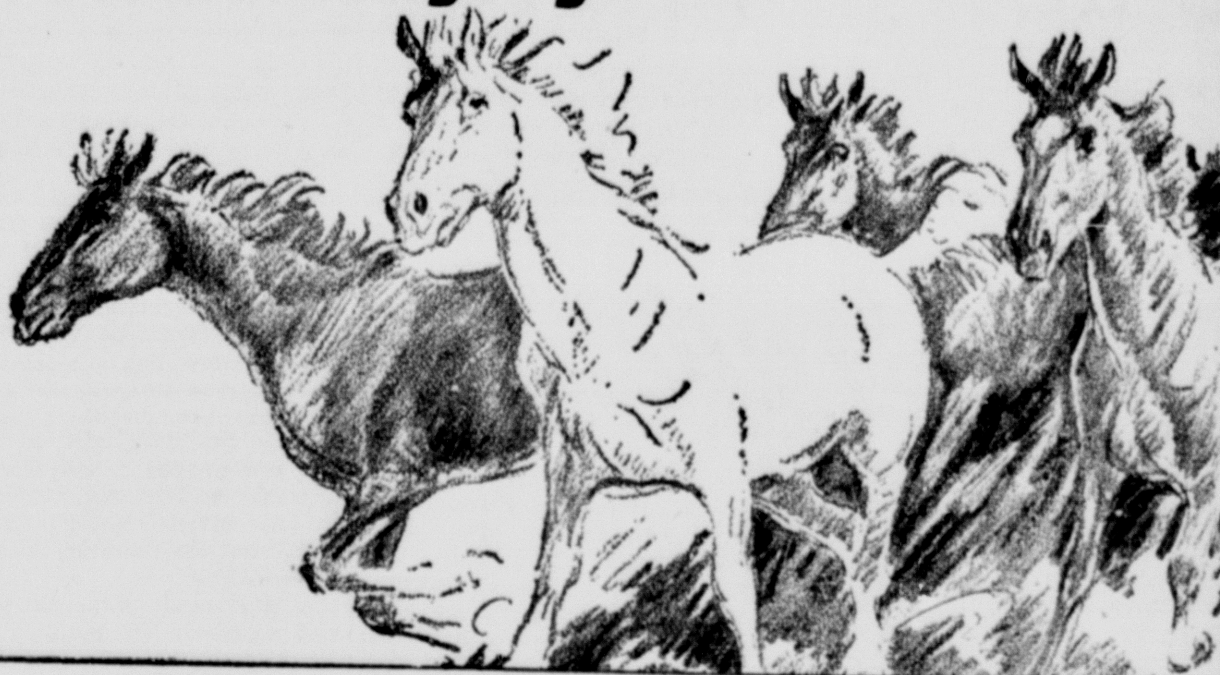

Belgium's polder country near the coast was once a region of lagoons. It has been reclaimed for agriculture by pumping and draining. The tracts of sandy, clayey soil—at or below sea level—are protected by dikes and laced by canals. Raised causeways cross the fields. The landscape is treeless except for rows of poplars planted along the dikes and causeways. The second strip of sandy soil stretches almost across the country. Its highest points are not more than 250 feet above sea level. Much of the land is barren heath; reclamation has been a continuous project. The western part of this strip is the plain of Flanders.

Railroads 200 Years Old

Railways originated at coal mines a century and more before the coming of the locomotive. The first rails were laid at Welsh and English mines to haul coal to ships or barges. As late as 1808 a report of the secretary of the treasury, on public roads and canals, noted that one of the very few places where "rail roads" could be economically employed would be to carry coal from the mines near Richmond to the James river. This was before the development of the locomotive, one of the first being a colliery locomotive.

Little Mary's father had spanked her. That night when she said her prayers she concluded with the petition:
"And please don't give daddy any more children. He don't know how to treat those he's got now."

TOO TRUTHFUL

The late Thomas F. Manville, the asbestos king, never tired of in-sisting that success in business de-pended on success in choosing effi-cient managers and overseers.

"The unsuccessful business man," he once said to a New York editor, "is apt to dispute authority to such poor creatures as young Seth Hig-gins."

"Seth's pap sent him to the mill one day to try to sell the season's wheat crop."

"Seth got hold of the miller and submitted a handful of wheat to him. The miller examined the wheat very carefully. Then he said: 'How much more has your pap got like this?'"

"He ain't got no more like it," young Seth answered. "It took him all morning to pick that out."

IN NEED

"Marse Govenah, I sutenly does want my Sam pardoned."

"Where is he, auntie?" asked the governor.

"Out at de pen," was the reply.

"What is he in for?"

"Stealin' hams."

"Did he steal them?"

"Yes, sah, he sho' did."

"Is he a good boy, auntie?"

"Lawdy, no sah; he's a turble wuthless, no 'unt boy."

"Then why do you want him par-doned?"

"Cause, sah, we's plumb out of ham ag'in."

Charles Stratton and his friend Lewis Silver from Phillips visited over the week end in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Stratton.

Charles SoRelle, S2-c, is at home on agricultural need leave to assist his father in getting wheat planted.

Mrs. C. R. Burrow has been holding meetings in the school districts of the county in favor of the Better Schools constitutional amendment which will be voted on Monday. Mrs. Burrow was named by the state committee as chairman of Randall county.

The election of street paving bonds will be held Saturday. Randall county won 12th place at the Dallas Fair according to a telegram from C. F. Walker.

Rev. Simeon Shaw was returned as pastor of the local Methodist Church for his second year. The general election will be held next Tuesday. Every indication points to the election of Senator Harding as president.

Floating Drydocks Change Concept of Sea Warfare

Enough electric equipment to furnish a good-sized factory plus a small hotel is installed on each floating drydock the navy is using to make emergency repairs of warships far from their most advanced permanent bases.

These floating factories, recently revealed to be in action, are changing the concept of naval warfare by enabling strategists to plan ocean going operations without dependence on the availability of fixed bases. Whereas the old static concept of sea strategy required ships to operate within an approximate range of 2,000 miles from a permanent repair base, floating drydocks make it possible to establish bases as they are needed and as near the fighting zone as desired.

In operation these mobile drydocks prepare a warship for repair by literally lifting the damaged vessel out of the water, thus giving workmen access to any part of the hull or deck, the same as if the ship were being overhauled on land. This is achieved by admitting water to sealed compartments so that the drydock submerges. When this is accomplished, the damaged vessel is floated over the dock or the dock is submerged under the vessel. Then water is pumped out of the compartments, and the drydock, with the ship under repair now nestling on it in a rack, arises to the surface. In this position, the damaged ship is completely out of the water, with its hull exposed, and examination or repair is made possible.

New Compass Helps

Pilots Hold Course

Have you ever been misled in the woods because you read your pocket compass when it was too near your ax or rifle? If so, you can understand why heavy metallic armor around fighter-plane cockpits made it necessary to adopt a kind of compass that could be located in a wing tip, or the tail; but read in the cockpit. Such a remote-indicating compass is now being manufactured.

Such compasses offer other advantages in that one compass unit may have several remote indicating details so the navigator or other members of the crew on large planes can have the same information as the pilot.

Permanent magnets in the compass unit, placed in a wing tip or the tail of the plane far from the plane's disturbing magnetic effects, line themselves up with the earth's magnetic field. These magnets affect the electrical voltages in a wire coil so that corresponding coils in the one or more indicators in the cockpit move pointers over a dial in exactly the same directions as the compass.

Color Effects

Dr. Abraham L. Graubart, past-president of the Columbia university school of optometry, said that in his investigations he found that two special tints, a light buff and a light gray used in combination, made an immediate difference in safety and productivity. Successful experiments were made in painting machinery with light green, yellow, aluminum, light blue and buff color, all of which gave more brilliancy than the old gray, black and green paints. Painting walls a solid color from floor to ceiling is hard on the eyes, according to Dr. Graubart. Investigations have shown that painting walls two different colors is easier on the eyes. Best results were obtained by painting a dado about 4 feet high a darker color than the remainder of the wall from the dado to the ceiling. The painting of floors whether they be wood or concrete is keenly appreciated. A concrete floor painted a medium gray will reflect 35 per cent of light while the same floor unpainted will reflect about 5 per cent.

Slip Covers

When you put slip covers on upholstered furniture for the summer, you protect the pieces from dust, but not from moths. Unless a fabric is one moth does not attack, like rayon, cotton, linen or silk, or a mixture of some of these, or unless you have had the fabric treated to make it mothproof, the slip cover may actually hide and shelter moth larvae and they may do a great deal of damage before you discover it. Brush and clean the upholstery well before you cover the furniture. Then from time to time take the covers off and dust and brush the fabric well, or go over it with a vacuum cleaner. If you find clothes moth or carpet beetle damage, you had best send the infested pieces to a reliable firm to be fumigated.

Value of Paint Colors

Painting walls a solid color from floor to ceiling is hard on the eyes. Investigations have shown that painting walls two different colors is easier on the eyes. Best results were obtained by painting a dado about 4 feet high, a darker color than the remainder of the wall from the dado to ceiling. The following color combinations: factory white eggshell with royal blue gloss dado; semi matte sunlit yellow with a dark yellow toward green gloss dado; ivory light buff with a plum gloss dado; proved to be very satisfactory.

THE RIGHT TRACTOR FOR THE PARTICULAR JOB

THE proverbial Jack-of-all-trades was master of none. The modern world of science and technology passed him by. The same principle applies to farm tractors. The tractor that does a wide variety of jobs unsatisfactorily can't possibly produce the greatest results at the least cost in any job.

But that's what the farmer—particularly the small operator—has got to do to meet postwar competition: he's got to produce the most food possible with the least effort and, consequently, at the lowest cost.

The farmer with 10 acres in truck crops needs one kind of tractor. The farmer with 100 acres in wheat alone needs another kind—or, as is usually the case, two or more different tractors. The tractor which does a good job on the Great Plains may be useless in the rice territory. And so it goes.

Conditions of climate, the lay of the land, and the character of soils in the different parts of this vast country, together with wide variations in the nature of crops and the size of operations, combine to produce wide differences in the requirements for tractors. Harvester's policy is to meet all these requirements.

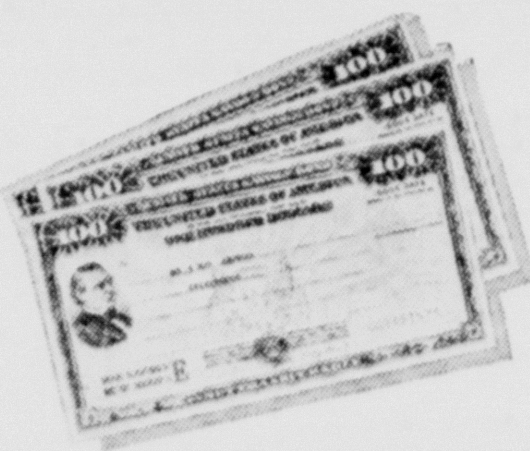

That is why Harvester's postwar line includes a great variety of Farmalls and other specialized tractors and attachments rather than a single tractor with a single system of tools. Every tractor in the line was developed after scientific research and testing under actual operating conditions showed the specifications needed for efficiency and economy.

Every Harvester-built tractor is the right machine for its particular job.

BE PREPARED!

Yep, that's the case! Six weeks tests are here. All of us dread those quizzes. If you're not careful you'll make a slip and poof! the knowledge will go (referring to the big week-end).

Tests aren't so bad. Teachers have just as hard a time as the students. If the quiz is easy you know you've accomplished something.

Some classes are having unit test a few weeks from now and won't be bothered by this dreadful demon, but they'll have their chance.

Those tests serve as a sort of survey to learn one's achievements. Your ability is brought out clearly, which sometimes will note one's talent in a certain field of work.

Be prepared! Don't wait until the last minute to cram.

WHY SHOULD WE?

Our government warns us of the tremendous slump in war bond sales since V-J Day. Our President urges that we continue to lend our money to the government. But why should we buy war bonds now? We won the war, didn't we. Of course we did. We bought a $25 bond during each drive and we're still struggling to survive sugar and meat rationing, aren't we? We did our part.

Why should we continue to support our government and aid the returning war veterans? What did they ever do for us anyway, except win the war? Is this the country, and are these the people for which our servicemen fought and died? Are we going to show our gratitude to these men by refusing to lend our money when it's so badly needed?

The decision is strictly up to us so let's do something about it. Buy more Victory Bonds, today.

Forum Highlights PTA Program

Parents and teachers of students attending the Canyon Schools, met in the grade school library, Thursday, October 18, at 2:30, for the first meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association this year.

Musical numbers furnished by three of Mrs. McReynolds' pupils, Wilford Taylor, Jr., Janet Taylor, and Royce Gum; and a forum with Miss Elva Fronabarger, Mrs. Dan Sanders, and Dr. J. B. Speer participating, composed the program. Dr. Speer, superintendent of C. H. S., discussed the need of more young people training to be teachers and presided at the forum in which Miss Elva Fronabarger, grade school principal, explained "What Teachers Expect from Parents." Mrs. Dan Sanders, a parent, responded with "What Parents Expect from Teachers."

Moving that the president, Mrs. W. W. Nicklaus be sent to the state meeting in San Antonio in November, Mr. Speer acted as chairman while taking the vote which was unanimous.

In the contest for the greatest number of parents present, the eighth grade, with ten mothers present, was winner and will receive a prize of $1.

After the meeting, the largest group in several years to attend the PTA meetings, had a few minutes' social and partook of light refreshments.

All teachers of the Canyon Schools will be permitted to attend the meetings of the PTA this year.

Laubins Illustrate Reservation Life

"All of you have played Indian at some time or another, but probably none of you have chosen it for your life's work. Once when two Indians came to our community I decided then, that I would be an Indian." So said Reginald Laubin at the opening of the lyceum program, October 17, in the high school auditorium.

In recent years he and Gladys Laubin have done much to learn the everyday customs of Indian life. Most of this research has been done on the Standing Rock Reservation of the Sioux Indians.

The nephew of the famous Sitting Bull adopted Mr. Laubin and gave him a name meaning "Buffalo Bull." When his foster father learned of his desire to enlighten the white people of the Indians' true nature, he encouraged him to lessen the misunderstanding between the two.

While showing some of the Indian clothing, the speaker explained the use of hat boxes, saddle blankets, sewing bags, and other pieces of equipment.

If one touches his enemy with his bare hands, he is awarded with one eagle feather for bravery, to be worn straight up on the back of his head. This is of great significance in an Indian's life.

A story was then given in sign language and interpreted alternately by the two performers. Drums were played and songs were sung as dances were given.

No liquor nor profanity was used in the world before the white man came; therefore, if the Indian wishes to swear, he must do it in English.

When answering the curtain call, Mr. Laubin, in sign language, bade that the spirits bless and keep everyone.

Victim Is Mourning Her Horrible Fate

Mr. Anthony, please help me! I've listened to the "Good Will Hour" for years, and since you comfort so many, you simply must help me. (sob!) I was happy like other boys and girls, once, Mr. Anthony. I too, skipped along my way to school, smelling the lovely flowers and listening to the birdies sing, but now! Oh, Mr. Anthony!

It happened like this. During the third week of school, I could see that my grades were going from bad to worse. Something had to be done! I always studied very diligently. I prepared my homework every night unless my pen was out of ink, or my pencil lead was broken. What on earth could the trouble be? I concentrated. That must be it! Why hadn't I thought of it before? My teachers didn't like me; that was it, of course.

That very day I went to the library and checked out Dale Carnegie's book "How to Win Friends and Influence People." Teachers are people aren't they? Certainly, so why couldn't I influence them? I read the book through and through, memorizing the rules.

The next day, I was prepared to face the world. I was sure of myself. It was 8:45 and I was sitting in the Home Ec. room at my table in the corner where Miss Davies had seated me the day before. She had just finished calling the roll when I applied Rule 1: Become interested in other people.

"Who was that you were having dinner with last night, Miss Davies? Did he kiss you good night?"

When I regained consciousness, someone told me it was 11:05. I had completely missed by study period. Mrs. Bartlett would have to be dealt with on the morrow but now I must drag my bruised and battered body up to Plane Geometry. What's that Mrs. Knott? You say you want me to prove that equal angles have equal complements? (Let's see now, I'd better apply Rule 2: Never argue with anyone.)

"You are absolutely correct Mrs. Knott. You said they were equal and that's enough for me. No further proof is needed."

"Speak to me Mrs. Knott! Don't just lie there on the floor! Now what have I done?"

After lunch I rushed to my English class. I believe I'll try Rule 3 on Mr. Cole. Hope it works better than the others. (Here goes Rule 3: Smile.) Mr. Cole was looking at me so I smiled all over my face. He looked angry so I began to laugh loudly, thinking perhaps that would be more effective.

"Too bad," said Mr. Cole, slipping a strait-jacket over my head, "I lose more students that way."

I tried to convince him that I was really quite harmless, but he wouldn't listen to me. Now, nobody speaks to me. A social outcast that's what I am! This is a horrible mess, Mr. Anthony! What shall I do?

Wright and Abbott Achieve Yardage in First Vicotry

Scalping the Chieftains of Friona in a hand-to-hand struggle at Buffalo Stadium last Friday night, October 19, the Canyon Eagles cinched their first victory of the season.

The Eagles won the toss and chose to receive. Keeping the ball as they bucked the line and made end runs, they drove the entire length of the field only to fumble at the Friona goal line. The Chieftains recovered behind their own goal line and the ball was brought out to the 20 yard line where they began a sustained drive all the way to the Eagles goal to score 6-0. The try for the extra point failed.

In the second quarter the Eagles came back with Wright carrying the ball most of the time to tie the score 6-6. Abbott's try for the extra point failed.

The lead see-sawed again, but at the half, the score stood 20-12 in the Eagles' favor.

When the teams came back after the half, it was mostly Canyon's game. The Eagles ran two more touchdowns and Friona one, making the final score 34-18 in favor of the home team.

Of an attempted five passes by the Eagles, one was completed, Abbott to Walters, for a gain of 20 yards. Of the five tries for extra points Abbott completed four.

Both teams are out on the gridiron for the first time in three seasons, and are inexperienced, but the Friona team had the edge on the Eagles in weight. Also two of the Eagles' first stringers, Malcolm Gunter and M. E. Rhoads, were out of the regular line-up because of injuries received in scrimmage.

Mothers of the Pep Squad sponsored a reception for Friona and Canyon in the high school gym after the game.

Robinson Selected Leader's Mascot

Peggy Jean Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, was elected mascot of the pep leaders Tuesday, October 17, at 8:30.

Her uniform consists of a pleated white skirt, white sweater, purple cape, white hat, and white shoes.

To pass her time she plays with her brother and sister, Jo Carol and Mary Ann.

Always fresh—at your grocer's

Suppose YOU hadn't been home for 3 years!

Chances are, the first thing you'd do when you got near a telephone would be to call the folks back home.

That's happening thousands of times every day, as more and more servicemen come back from overseas. Add other thousands of business calls as the country swings back to peacetime production, perhaps even a greater number of personal calls from people going to new jobs and new homes in other cities, and you have a BIG load on long distance lines.

When we've added new circuits and additional equipment, all calls will go through quickly. That will take some time, of course. In the meantime, if your call is delayed, we know you'll understand why.

Fish Kept Norway Alive for 5 Years

Still Mainstay of Average Norwegian Family.

OSLO, NORWAY.—Sigvald Lindemann's family rarely ate fish before the war. Today, the four Lindemanns eat little else. If they hadn't learned to like fish they probably would have starved long before the Germans left Oslo.

Fish kept Norway alive through the five years of German occupation and it's still the mainstay of the average Norwegian family. But Allied merchantmen are unloading at the Oslo docks now, and the Lindemanns can hope for an occasional piece of meat to supplement their fish dinners.

The Lindemanns in Oslo are a typical Norwegian middle class family.

They pay the equivalent of $30 a month for a centrally heated apartment equipped with electric stove and refrigerator. Mrs. Lindemann, slender, blond and fortyish, boasts that Oslo's housing is the most modern in Europe.

Mrs. Lindemann constantly apologizes for the threadbare condition of her furniture, which she hasn't been able to repair or replace for five years. And the Germans took away their radio and the family car long ago.

Mr. Lindemann might be called a typical Norwegian white collar worker. He earns $160 a month as assistant manager of a paper and stationery store.

Twelve year old Johan may have a small glass of skimmed milk. Only babies get whole milk. Then at eight o'clock, the family has a small supper of bread, margarine, cold fish and perhaps a slice of Danish cheese.

The Lindemanns will keep on getting along on their fish diet, plus some small imports of meat, for another year, but they're not complaining.

Duke Stands by as King's English Takes a Beating

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—Ninji, king of 20,000 natives of the Mount Hager region of New Guinea, greeted the duke of Gloucester and then in an address reminded his own barefoot natives and constables that the duke was:

"Brother true belong king, one fella poppa, one fella momma."

He told them he had come to "look it you fella New Guinea and speak true belong you," to which the duke replied he was "happy to much belong you fella."

Ninji wore a headdress of cassowary plumes set on tambu shells, draped behind with wood and metal from fallen aircraft. A flat shell was attached to his nose and rested on his black beard, and another enormous shell dangled from his neck. The duke wore a slouch hat.

Mating Pigeons Given Philadelphia Reprieve

PHILADELPHIA.—The pigeons in the public squares and parks of Philadelphia have been given three more months to live before they are exterminated as a health menace.

The order to destroy the birds by gas because nearly half of them are infected with ornithosis, similar to parrot fever, was delayed because this is the mating season, William Phillips, manager of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said.

Meanwhile, bird lovers continued to feed the pigeons, although health authorities warned that the practice was dangerous.

Seabees Load Vessel After Workmen Strike

BOSTON.—The navy used 50 Seabees to load ship stores and mail on the naval transport Admiral H. T. Mayor after 42 longshoremen walked off the job following a dispute over the number of men needed for loading operations. The International Association of Longshoremen (AFL) said the dispute arose when 25 men refused to load ship stores on the transport, preparing for sea after landing troops from Europe, and 17 others engaged in handling mail quit in sympathy.

Dutch Again Set Aside Tulip Bulbs for Export

LONDON.—Starving Dutch who were forced to eat 500 million of their valuable tulip bulbs in the last months of the war are now in a position to resume export of the bulbs for American gardens. In a statement released by the Netherlands Information service here C. J. van Til, president of the Society for Cultivation of Flowers, said Dutch growers hoped to send about 25,000 tons of bulbs to the United States and Britain this year.

Chinese Pay $1,800 for One United States Dollar

CHUNGKING.—A further rise in the black market value of American currency occurred today following the suspension of Chinese government sales of gold.

The rate touched an all-time high of $1,800 (Chinese) for one American dollar, sagged to under $1,600 and then went to about $1,700. Inflation was even worse in Japanese-occupied Shanghai where rice was selling for about $5,600 a pound.

Alaska is the only portion of the United States in which tin is found.

"Bill Smith, come see the NEW QUALITY OF LIVING the Wilsons enjoy!"

Heat-wilted—that's what we Smiths were, last summer! So, when Liz Wilson said they were cool and comfortable, because their house had a new QUALITY OF LIVING, I simply had to drag Bill over to see...

Cool 'as a mountain-top—their house was! What a relief! Why, in a few minutes my droopy husband was dancing a rumba! "What's the secret?" we begged. Jim Wilson grinned. "It's our Servel All-Year Gas Air Conditioner," he said.

"In winter, as well as summer, we all sleep better. Our All-Year Gas Air Conditioner heats and humidifies the air just right. The house is always quieter because we needn't open windows, nor let in street noises..."

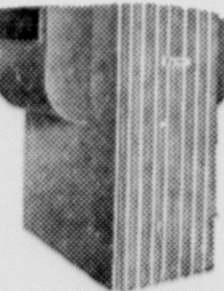

"It's cleaner, healthier all year! Dust, soot and pollen are filtered out with our All-Year Gas Air Conditioner. This saves Liz cleaning time, and see how clean the furniture stays! No drafts, either. Air is circulated gently."

"This simple unit does it all!" beamed Jim. "It cools, heats, humidifies, dehumidifies, dust-cleans and circulates! We've a new QUALITY OF LIVING with our Servel All-Year Gas Air Conditioner!"

You, like the Wilsons, can enjoy this NEW QUALITY OF LIVING in your post-war home! Think of it! Sultry summers, blustery winters will never bother you. At a flick of the Selectrol switch, you'll choose your own climate indoors with Servel All-Year Gas Air Conditioner.

And it's smart to plan now. So why not come in and let us tell you more about it? And, meanwhile, keep saving—in War Bonds and Stamps.

Speer Talked on Education Tuesday at Rotary Club

Supt. J. B. Speer talked on the educational problems of the nation at the Rotary Club luncheon Tuesday.

The club will observe Rotary Ann night next Tuesday at 7 o'clock, with no meeting at noon. Dr. A. M. Meyer will be in charge of the program.

The greatest resource of the nation is its youth, stated Mr. Speer. We can build a great nation only as we provide for our people to become greater.

The speaker pointed out the results which Hitler obtained in educating youth on an ideal. Russia has used a similar method for two decades. England has doubled her education program since the end of the war.

Education must be extended to the poor as well as the wealthy of America. The rural schools are the poorest in the nation, yet a larger part of the future population comes from the rural section. The nation must improve these schools.

Selective Service revealed the great defects of our educational system. About 5 million registrants of the 21-27 age bracket were not able to take their place in the armed forces. These errors must be corrected.

Some states spend as high as $175 per capita on education. The lowest in the nation is $48. In Canyon the cost runs $94.

The nation will need education in order to meet the economic problem of the post-war period when the 260 billion national debt must be repaid.

Good buildings and equipment do not mean good schools. No school can be better than its teachers. In the teaching profession as well as in all other lines of business "We get what we pay for." Mr. Speer pointed out the fact that the teaching profession is greatly underpaid. 280,000 teachers left their positions during the war, and many of them will never return.

Arthur C. Haley, Jr., was introduced as a new member of the club. Membership pins were given to four new members, Haley, Dan Sanders, Hud Prichard, and Chas. Graham.

Visitors were: Bill Gosser of Washington; Thos. L. Devin, Lt. Houston Bright of Canyon; President Don Morris of Abilene Christian College, Abilene; Luther Roberts, Morris Browning, Arch Hunsley, Geo. Hurst, R. H. Kelley, Ed Broome, Jack Cunningham, Jess Sanders, Frank Barnes, E. Kancher, John Oaks, all of Amarillo.
